

Court to Rule on Validity of L. R. Ordinances

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today agreed to rule on the validity of ordinances of Little Rock and North Little Rock, Ark., under which branches of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People were ordered to furnish lists of members and contributors.

The ruling was asked by Mrs. Daisy Bates of Little Rock, state president of the NAACP, and by Mrs. Birdie Williams, president of the North Little Rock branch of NAACP. Each was fined $25 for refusing to disclose names of members and contributors.

The women contended the ordinances invaded the right of privacy and of freedom of speech and association protected by the U.S. Constitution's 14th Amendment.

The ordinances require organizations seeking exemption from occupational privilege taxes to submit financial statements and other information including the names of members.

In upholding the ordinances, the Arkansas Supreme Court said their primary purpose was to obtain revenue.

In their appeal, the women cited a U.S. Supreme Court decision of June 30, 1958, that Alabama could not compel disclosure of NAACP membership records.

Avalanche of Mail for Mr. Dulles

WASHINGTON (AP)—John Foster Dulles, gravely ill at Walter Reed Army Hospital, continues to receive an avalanche of mail from well-wishers around the world.

At latest count today, there were more than 32,000 messages to the former secretary of state. Aides said the average was about 300 a day since he went to the hospital in February.

Some of the mail has been shown to him with cheering, at least for one person to handle.

A victim of cancer, Dulles took a turn for the worse last week after contracting pneumonia. He was reported steadily growing weaker. A State Department spokesman had no further change in his condition to report Sunday.

Gates Is Named New Deputy Defense Secy.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thomas S. Gates Jr., retiring secretary of the Navy, was picked today to be the new deputy secretary of defense.

He will succeed the late Donald A. Quarles, who died earlier this month.

Gates had planned to return to private business at the end of this month. Instead, President Eisenhower picked him to be the No. 2 man in the Defense Department.

The choice promptly touched off speculation as to whether Gates later this year will be named to succeed Neil H. McElroy as secretary of defense. Prior to Quarles' death 10 days ago, McElroy had said several times that he would like to resign by the end of this year.

The White House announced that Gates' formal nomination will go to the Senate later this week.

Gates plans to step down as secretary of the Navy, which was announced by the White House last January. At that time, Eisenhower picked the undersecretary, William Franke, to succeed him.

Gates, a 63-year-old Republican, had intended to return to his investment banking business. He was a partner in Drexel & Co. before entering government service.

Congress Is Urged to Add to Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress was urged today to add 400 million dollars to the $3,936,000,000 asked by President Eisenhower for foreign aid.

William H. Draper Jr. told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today the extra money should be used to arm this country's European allies with new missiles, nuclear weapons and faster planes.

Draper, a former undersecretary of the Army, is chairman of a committee set up last year by Eisenhower to evaluate the military assistance program, for which the President is asking $1,600,000,000 for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Draper said there have been major mistakes in the past in administration of the foreign aid program and that his committee will have a report on that later.

"To abandon the program, for errors in execution or for any other reason, would be to abandon the free world and to lose the cold war," he argued.

The general expectation in Congress is that there will be a cut in the foreign aid total asked by Eisenhower. But two influential Democratic senators predicted today that any reductions will be moderate.

Rev. Philip Lewis, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Hope, is observing the 25th anniversary week and special speaker will be guests throughout the week. Speaker tonight will be the Rev. Philip Lewis of Waxahatchee, Texas. District Superintendent of the North Texas District.

Klan Posters Appear Over Arkansas Area

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Posters seeking members of the Ku Klux Klan were found on utility poles and trees in a wide area of south Arkansas and as far north as Little Rock during the week-end.

The posters, first were reported at Little Rock yesterday.

Reports of posters came from Camden, Coahoma, Texarkana and Bradley County today.

"They are scattered all over town," said a Texarkana newspaperman, "and we've had reports from almost every county in south-west Arkansas."

The posters show a hooded Klansman on horseback and bear the words, "In God we trust. Join the Association of Arkansas—KKK. Write P.O. Box 1712, Texarkana, U.S.A."

Several weeks ago, Klan posters appeared at Little Rock with a city post office box number. Efforts to learn who had rented the box were unsuccessful. Postal officials at Texarkana declined to reveal the identity of the box renter there.

The Klan is not licensed to do business as a corporation in Arkansas. A charter issued in the 1920s, lapsed more than 30 years ago.

State officials have said they had no knowledge of any Klan activities in Arkansas recently.

The posters, which appeared at Little Rock, said the newest post office from an Atlanta organization.

City Manager Dean Dauley of Little Rock said the newest post office may have been put up by a "conspiracy" group from the Atlanta organization.

"The Klan may be having difficulty over who gets the dues," Dauley said. He did not know if the Klan would be asked to comply with the "Bennett ordinance," a measure requiring certain organizations to list contributions and other information.

Posters seeking members for the Ku Klux Klan were found on utility poles at Little Rock and in Bradley County yesterday.

There were reports of similar posters had been placed on poles in other areas but this could not be confirmed immediately.

The posters depicted a hooded Klansman on horseback and said: "In God we trust. Join the Association of Arkansas—KKK. Write P.O. Box 1712, Texarkana, U.S.A."

Posters were fastened to poles in west Little Rock and on poles along state Highway 15 south of Hermitage.

Several weeks ago, Klan posters appeared at Little Rock with a city post office box number. It could not be learned who rented the box.

Trains Crash Head-on 119 Are Injured

By EARL AYKROID

CHICAGO (AP)—At least 119 persons were injured, two seriously, today in a head-on collision of two jammed rush-hour elevated trains carrying riders to downtown Chicago.

The impact telescoped a four-foot section of the Logan Square train and threw standing passengers to the floor like tinpins.

Scores were treated at the hospital. Others were taken to hospitals for treatment or examination.

The collision of the two six-coach trains of all steel construction occurred when the first train stopped after leaving a station and was rammed by the second, passenger, Jerry Rogus, was in the rear car of the train that was hit. He said he turned his head and saw the other train approaching.

"There was a big bang and the sparks were flying," he said. "All the people started running for the front of the car."

"One girl who had been standing near me started screaming for her mother. 'God help me,' she cried. Her leg was cut off near the knee. Then there was a Japanese man. His arm was cut and he was bleeding from the mouth."

Ronald Nowok, a passenger on the train that rammed the second said "Everything went black" upon impact. He said a side door in his car flew open, a woman beside him fell backward and he hit his head on a seat.

Witnesses said passengers in the rear car of the standing train ran forward to the other car while those in the front car of the rear train tried to cross into the rear car.

Passengers in elevated trains can step from car to car through front-rear exits.

The crash occurred at 1800 Milwaukee Ave., at the highest point of the northwest elevated route and between the Damen and Western Avenue stations. The El structure there is as high as a three-story building.

The motorman of the rear train, Dominick Paris, was trapped in his cab for more than a half hour. He complained of a leg injury but was able to walk unaided.

Passengers said the rear train had just pulled away from the Western Avenue station and was traveling slowly when the collision occurred. The first coach of the

Arena Bleachers Collapse, One Killed, 150 Hurt

MAYETTA, Kan. (AP)—A 10-foot arena bleachers buckled with a pop and a bang Saturday in this eastern Kansas hamlet, injuring 150 persons.

Twenty-three of the victims required hospitalization. The others were released after treatment at hospitals in Topeka, Holton and Lawrence.

"There was a pop and a bang and it collapsed," said C. W. Lawson, mayor of Mayetta. "There was no warning that it was going to give away."

Lawson, who was one of about 500 persons in the recently installed bleachers when it crashed to the ground. He was not hurt.

Witnesses said the spectators had just started to file out after the last performance of the four-day rodeo when the accident occurred. Performers and the other fans in the crowd of about 6,000 plunged into the wreckage to free the victims.

"There was a lot of screaming and shouting," said one witness. "Some of the people clung to the sides, but most of them piled up into just a big heap. It took several minutes to get them un-piled."

Cause of the accident has not been determined. The bleachers had been built for this year's rodeo. They were constructed of a metal frame and wood seats and the section was 75 feet long and had 10 rows, the highest of which was about 10 feet from the ground.

One of the injured, Donald Troughton of Topeka, said a liquefied gas line was broken, setting on edge the nerves of victims and Continued on Page Two

U.S. Formally Rejects Russian Proposal for German Peace Treaty

Herter Terms Plan to Bring Discord, Conflict

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

CHENNEVIA (AP)—The Western powers offered today to discuss the Berlin crisis with the Soviet Union apart from other German issues. But they declared the Berlin issue cannot be "settled in isolation" from German reunification and European security problems.

The Western offer was made in a statement issued in an apparent effort to calm a stormy dispute within the Western camp over whether to seek a stop-gap arrangement on Berlin.

The row arranged the United States and Britain against France and West Germany.

The U.S. and British delegations let it be known over the weekend that they felt the Soviet Union's adamant rejection of the Western package proposal for German reunification and a European security system necessitated negotiations on the immediately pressing question of Berlin.

The joint Western statement denied that the Allies had decided to break up the Western package plan.

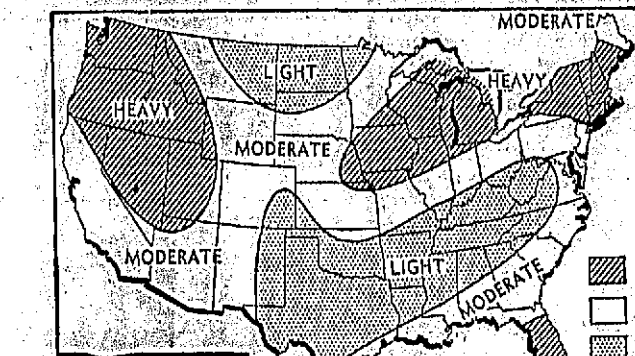

"I said the Western powers had already stated that the various questions included in the plan can be discussed one by one. But as they are, in fact, all connected, they cannot be settled in isolation," said the statement.

"As to Berlin," the statement said, "the Western powers plan to discuss this problem along the line of the proposals on Berlin contained in Phase I of the Western peace plan."

The plan proposes that West and East Berlin be united by free elections and the unified city be guaranteed by the Big Four. This would be the first step toward German reunification.

Prescott's 8th Annual Party for Graduates

TOP — PRESCOTT HELD its 8th annual all-night party for its high school graduating class Friday night; this picture showing the stage setup in the street in front of the Nevada theater. At right Horace McKenzie and B. G. McBrayer are putting on the finishing touches.

MIDDLE — A REALISTIC foot-bridge, constructed over a lagoon, to the right of the top picture.

BOTTOM — THIS WAS a portion of the crowd that had gathered while the pictures were being taken, between 8 and 9 p. m. Friday. The actual performance in the street was not scheduled until 11 p. m.

Here is the schedule of Friday night's events:
1. Dance at the high school
2. Performance on the street stage at 11 p. m.
3. Special movie show
4. Entertainment at the Teen-Age club, including acts by five girls students of Fran's Dancing School of Hope
5. From the Teen-Age club the boys and girls went to the Educational building of the Methodist church for breakfast
6. Worship at the Methodist church, concluding the program.

Prescott and Hope held their all-night high school parties the same night. The Hope party also was photographed, and the pictures will be presented in a special page next Friday, May 22.

Wifely Tears Don't Form a Fountain of Knowledge

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 20, my husband is 25 and we have a two-month-old son. My problem is this: before our marriage, Earl and I agreed that we'd save all the money possible so we could both go to college. It worked out all right for my husband. He's a sophomore in school but I couldn't enroll last year because I was expecting the baby. Earl will complete his course in eight years whereas the one I wanted would take me only two years. Do you advise me to go to school in the fall with Earl or wait a few years or go nights? I love my husband very much but I am very jealous of him. Most of his friends in school are single and they all sit with single girls in the cafeteria and lounge. Today, my husband got his notice to sign up for the next semester and when I saw it I started to cry. Usually I cry from the time he leaves for school until he returns. — Chloe

Dear Chloe: You don't want to go to school for an education; all you're thinking about is chaperoning your husband. Your attitude will never lead to a degree but it could end up in a decree of divorce, that is! Apparently, if Earl wants to continue his education, he may have to take correspondence courses. Perhaps then he'll smile, from you once in a while instead of those eternal and internal tears. You are indulging in very childish faith in your man, be grateful that he's willing to put in long hours of work and study to be a better husband for you, that he's thoroughly aware of his responsibilities as a father. Be cheerful, stop nagging, and get over your jealousy. This is a do-it-yourself project no one else can take and very foolish attitudes. Have over.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a young man of 19 and for some months have been dating a girl I thought that issue. Beginning the second week of negotiations after a weekend recess, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was reported poised for a detailed discussion of the West's package plan for German reunification and European security.

U.S. Secretary of State Chris tian Herter, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and French Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Milleville, lent a condemnation of the Soviet's counterproposal for a peace treaty that would leave Germany divided.

Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev in a weekend speech appeared to open the prospect of agreement on individual points if not for a general settlement. Khrushchev, while denouncing the Western package plan as a "white and cold" conspiracy, said it "which are worthy of examination and which we shall not oppose. On the contrary, we shall be prepared to seek solutions at the roundtable."

American and British officials said privately that the Western allies see no possibility at this time of bridging the wide gap between their position on German reunification and the Soviets.

The starting point for negotiations on Berlin alone, officials said, will be the proposal in the Allied package plan to merge the western and eastern sectors of the divided city. The limited city would be ruled by an elected all-German city council subject only to general supervision of the Big Four.

Any such interim arrangement for Berlin would be linked to the ultimate conclusion of a general East-West agreement to reunite Germany.

Both the Western and the Soviet master plans for Germany call for the opposing side to come to the brink of cold war surrender.

The Allied plan would within 30 months create a united Germany of 72 million people that could choose membership in the Atlantic Alliance or the Soviet-sponsored Warsaw Pact or remain a Western "buffer" state. Apparently the Soviets, who complained that anti-Communists would control this power, would not elect to join the West. This would tilt the balance of world power against the Soviets.

The Soviet's counterproposal for a peace treaty with the two German states would, in the West's view, shatter the Atlantic Alliance and the European integration movement, open West Germany to Communist infiltration and finally seal the division of Europe and Germany.

Detroit Loses, Yanks Barely Escape Cellar

By JOE REICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

It's time American League home run hitting peripherals like Mickey Vernon, Roy Sievers, Jackie Jensen and Rocky Colavito started taking Washington's Harmon Killebrew seriously.

The 22-year-old from Payette, Idaho, smashed two more home runs Sunday as the surprising Senators split a doubleheader with the second place Chicago White Sox. That gave him 14 homers in 34 games, three more than runner-up Colavito's 11.

After warming up with a double and single in Washington's first game 4-2 triumph, Killebrew hammered two circuit blows in the nightcap. The blows narrowed Chicago's 8-1 lead to one run but the White Sox tallied twice in the ninth for a 10-7 win.

Cleveland clung to its slim half-game lead over Chicago by splitting a doubleheader with Baltimore. The Indians won the second game 8-2 after the Orioles took the opener 6-7 in 11 innings.

In another doubleheader, Kansas City swamped New York 10-0 after the Yankees had won the opener 3-2 with three runs in the ninth. Boston snapped a five-game losing streak, shellacking last place Detroit 10-1.

In the National League, Milwaukee retained its 2½ game edge over San Francisco by defeating the Los Angeles Dodgers 8-3. The Giants walked Cincinnati 9-1. Pittsburgh split with Chicago, the Pirates winning the opener 5-4 and the Cubs the nightcap 7-6. The scheduled doubleheader between the Philadelphia Phillies and Cardinals at St. Louis was rained out.

Pete Ramos hurled a five-hitter against Chicago. The Washington right-hander received ample batting support from Jim Lemon and Reno Bertoia. Each homered to account for three runs in the second inning of the opener.

The loser was Dick Donovan, who had beaten the Senators five straight and 13 times in 16 decisions. Nellie Fox paced a 13-hit Chicago attack with a double and three singles in the second game.

Gus Triandos was the big gun in Baltimore's first game, up hill victory over Cleveland. He smashed a three run homer with two out in the ninth to tie the score at 7-7. In the 11th, with the bases full and two out, Billy Klauer coaxed a walk off relief pitcher Jim Perry to force in the winning run. Gary Bell, backed by an 11-hit attack, won his third game for Cleveland in the nightcap.

Left-hander Bud Daley lost a heart-breaking first game for Kansas City. He had a three-hit lead against the Yankees and led 2-0 going into the ninth. Then a walk and four consecutive singles gave the Yankees three runs and the game. The last Yankee hit a single by Hank Bauer, came off reliever Ralph Terry and drove in the winning run, Don Larsen (3-0), won it.

Bob Grim handcuffed his former Yankee teammates with two singles in the second game. A six-run second inning against Tom Sturdivant was highlighted by Dick Williams' three-run homer. Ted Williams (now 1-for-22)

Aaron's Hitting Keeps Braves Going Strong

By JOE EICHLER Associated Press Sports Writer

Hot-hitting Aaron, who may become the National League's first 400-hitter in 29 years, must feel like a guy swimming against the tide. The Milwaukee mauler ripped a home run and single in the Braves' 8-3 victory over Los Angeles Sunday. That gave him a spectacular run of eight consecutive games in which he's made two or more hits. Yet, during that time he's tacked on only one percentage point to an average that now stands at .484.

That's not all. The slugging outfielder has hit safely in each of his last 21 games. Yet, during those three weeks, he's actually lost 10 points. He was batting an even .500 when he started the streak. Hammerin' Hank is in a spot now where his average drops if he collects two hits in five times at bat.

Aaron's homer No. 11 came in the fifth inning, broke a 2-2 tie, and set the stage for the Dodgers' fourth straight defeat. The victory enabled the Braves to retain their 2½ game margin over the runner-up San Francisco Giants, who defeated the Cincinnati Reds, 9-1. Chicago's Cubs crept to within two percentage points of the fourth place Reds, pulling out at .484.

Gene Robinson was the winning pitcher, going the route while giving up only two singles and walking one. Robinson was untouched except in the third inning.

Hope will return the Little Rock game on the 25th at Geyer Springs field just off Highway 67.

Camp Gets a Timely Hit in Hope Victory

Wayne Camp lined a double to left center scoring Bobby Ervin and Joe Parris in the final inning of yesterday's game at Legion Field, to give the local Big League a 4 to 2 edge over Little Rock's Caldwell Oilers. Ervin had singled to open the inning with Parris getting on with a walk.

Little Rock picked up two runs in the third on a walk, an error and two singles to take an early lead.

In the fifth, Hope got one when McNulty walked. Ray Duke singled and Charles Flowers doubled to right. The locals got another in the sixth when Joe Parris walked. David Moore forced him with a grounder that got through Little Rock's first baseman and Winston Duke singled. Parris home. The score remained tied until Camp's blow in the last inning gave Hope the win.

Gene Robinson was the winning pitcher, going the route while giving up only two singles and walking one. Robinson was untouched except in the third inning.

Hope will return the Little Rock game on the 25th at Geyer Springs field just off Highway 67.

Little Wins Hot Springs Golf Meet

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Genial Gene Littler headed for Memphis and another match Monday with $2,800 in winnings and the Hot Springs Open Golf Tournament title.

Littler, 28-year-old Navy veteran from Singing Hills, Calif., parlayed careful putting to a 270, one-stroke victory yesterday in the tourney at Hot Springs Country Club.

Critical putts marked his duel with second-place finisher Jim Ferree of Crystal River, Fla., who had a 87 and a 271 total to split in their doubleheader with "Pittsburgh" Ernie Banks' ninth home run provided them with a 7-6 triumph after Pittsburgh had won the opener 5-4. Littler forced the postponement of the scheduled doubleheader between the Philadelphia Phillies and Cardinals in St. Louis.

All three American League doubleheaders resulted in splits. In the only single contest, the Boston Red Sox snapped a five-game losing streak, pounding out a 10-1 triumph over Detroit. Cleveland defeated Baltimore 8-3 after the Orioles had snatched an 8-7 decision from the Indians in 11 innings. Chicago's White Sox atoned for a first game 4-2 loss to Washington by winning the second game 10-7. Kansas City, after losing a heart-breaking 3-2 opener when the New York Yankees scored three runs in the ninth, won the second game 10-0.

Few "Burdens" made only 34 pitches in subduing the Dodgers for a 6-2 record. The Milwaukee right-hander permitted eight hits, including home runs by Don Demeter and Charlie Neal. Del Crandall had four hits, including a homer.

Shortstop Andre Rodgers supported Stu Miller's five-hit pitching with a pair of home runs and a single as the Giants won the rubber of their three-game set with Cincinnati. Willie Mays, continuing his hitting spree, slammed a homer and double. The defeat was charged to Bob Purkey, who defeated the Giants four times in five decisions last year.

Test home runs featured the Pirates' Cubs twin bill. Bill Mazeroski hit two for Pittsburgh in the opener. Vern Law was the winner but he needed help from Elroy Face in the ninth.

Face, who has a 6-0 record in relief, came on with runners on first and third, none out and Pittsburgh ahead 5-3. He retired the side with only one run scoring, on a double play.

Dale Long hit two home runs for the Cubs. His second, in the nightcap, tied the score at 2-2. The Cubs went ahead 5-3 in the fifth in a three-run rally capped by Banks' homer off loser Bernie Daniels.

May Not Be Too Late for Sammy to Win

By GEORGE BOWEN Associated Press Sports Writer

W.Va. (AP) — A phenomenal 59, followed by a tidy 63. An 11-stroke victory in his own Sam Snead Festival. It may not be too late after all for Sammy to win that elusive National Open Golf championship.

Championship would up his competitive lineup for the open Sunday by shooting the lowest 72-hole total score of his 25-year professional career, 259 — 21 under par. It left runner-up Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., wallowing in his wake by 11 strokes and started up talk again that this may finally be the year for Snead, only nine days away from his 47th birthday, to win the open title.

It was the 103rd tournament victory for Snead, including all of note except the open, in which he has been runner-up three times. "Sure, I'd like to win it," he said today, "because then I'd have won them all. But it's only a prestige tournament."

"I can't seem to get in the mood to win it. The field is not as good as some of the regular PGA tournaments because some of the better players fail to qualify."

"The courses are doctored up to make them unusually tough. That's not golf."

Snead himself will have to qualify for the open June 11-13, at Mamaroneck, N.Y. He'll try it in Washington June 1.

His festival, which he has won five out of 12 times, was only the third tournament for Snead this year.

Dulles Papers Will Go to Princeton

WASHINGTON (AP) — Personal diplomatic papers of John Foster Dulles will be given to Princeton University.

A group of Dulles' friends will finance the building of a library of diplomatic history which will bear his name. Film copies of many official State Department documents of the past six years also will be housed in the two-story structure at Princeton, N.J.

The library will be a tribute to the former secretary of state who is now seriously ill with cancer. He has been further weakened by pneumonia.

Dulles, 71, has been a patient at Walter Reed Army Hospital since Feb. 12, except for a brief rest in Florida. He resigned April 15 as secretary of state but was retained by President Eisenhower as a personal consultant with cabinet rank.

Dulles already has given thousands of his personal papers to Princeton to start the library.

Drug store owner Irvin Zuckerman, was in a telephone booth chatting with his girl friend. Terseley, he told her: "Call the police — I must hang up."

Minutes later, Detectives Raymond Bruno, 52, and Stanley Tomper, 30, arrived — knowing only there was some kind of trouble. They were greeted by bullets. But one of the wounded detectives shot Loris. Deckard also took a bullet in a rapid exchange of shots.

Deckard, dumping a bag containing the body in a vacant lot before fleeing the two-family flat of Walter's fiancée, 18-year-old Janet Fischer.

Deckard headed her 20-year-old sister, Mrs. Lois Barth, and her mother, Mrs. Margaret Fischer, 35, into the kitchen.

Mrs. Barth said the bloody Deckard terrorized the women and her 6-year-old brother, Eddie. When Walter knocked on the door she said Deckard made them let him in. Then said "I'll fight you all gonna go for a ride."

Walter promised to drive him anywhere he would leave the women behind. Deckard agreed. Police spotted Walter's car in North St. Louis and gave chase.

Deckard headed for the home of an off-armed pal, Curtis Link. Chief of Detectives James A. Chapman and a police detail saw a taxi parked in front of Link's apartment. Three officers started up the attic stairs and Deckard shouted, "Don't shoot, I'm coming down."

Junior League Shop Opens

Opening day of the Hope Junior Auxiliary (petitioning) Thrift Shop on Friday was a big success. The Thrift Shop will be the only means of financing the projects of the Auxiliary. The clothes are next to new and sold at reasonable prices. It is located on Canal street in the former Bar-B-Que building owned by R. D. Franklin. Mr. Franklin donated the building rent free. Those wishing to donate good clothing may call Mrs. Lamar Cox, Mrs. A. Page, Mrs. George Peck or Mrs. Dick Watkins and they will be picked up. Opening hours are Friday from 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. and Saturday from 9 a. m. to 12 and 1 p. m. to 5 p. m. The shop will also provide clothing for the needy with the recommendation of a civic club or responsible organization.

Rival Groups Campaign in Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Rival organizations seeking to oust different factions of the Little Rock School Board today began campaigning for votes in a recall election set for next Monday.
The Committee to Stop This Outrageous Purge (STOP), yesterday selected William S. Mitchell, an attorney, to head its campaign.
The group seeks to oust Board President Ed L. McKinley and members Ben Bowland and Robert W. Laster, who fired 44 teachers and school employees earlier in segregationists.

Journey To Love

By VIRGINIA NIELSON
(C) 1959 by Virginia Nielsen.
Distributed by NEA Service Inc.

Kathie Ebbertis awakened suddenly without knowing why. Her room was dark except for the smoke - gray square, spattered with half a dozen stars, that was her window.
The old house creaked and seemed to sigh, and from the barnyard came the muted sounds of walking stock-old Bossie lowling softly to her calf, the restless nicker of one of the horses, a tentative cock crow. Then the sound that had awakened her was repeated. "Kathie," said the low voice just outside her door.
Instantly she jumped out of bed and snatched up her cotton housecoat. When she opened her door, light streamed in from the hall. Against it the figure of Mrs. Jensen was a bulky shadow.
"It's your uncle, Kathie," she said, her voice barely more than a whisper. "He wants to see you."
Since his illness, Uncle Job had been occupying a bed in the "back parlor" of the old-fashioned California farmhouse. As Kathie followed the older woman down the stairs, she ran smoothing palms over her hair, pulled back and braided for the night into two swinging black ropes.
The stairs grew progressively darker as they left the globe burning in the hall behind them. On the lower floor there was no light except the bluish night light from the sickroom.
"I telephoned Doc Hency," the neighbor threw back over her shoulder. "He's coming."
Kathie was conscious of her accelerated heart beat. "Is he much worse?" she asked anxiously.
"Your uncle's pretty old," Mrs. Jensen said vaguely.
Uncle Job—Kathie's great-uncle, really—would be 70 his next birthday. Anything could happen and Uncle Job, harsh and intolerant though he had often been, was all the family Kathie knew.
She followed Mrs. Jensen into the sickroom—and every other thought was banished from her mind. For Uncle Job looked bad. In the bluish dusk of the sickroom, his harsh countenance looked frighteningly cadaverous and his eyes seemed unnaturally bright. He was raised high against his pillows and his breathing was unpleasantly loud.
"Kathie," he said hoarsely. She knelt beside the bed and stretched her hands across the faded quilt toward him. "I have been a sorry parent, Kathie," he rasped. "I've been too old to understand a young one like you." Tears clogged her throat. "You've been good in your way, Uncle Job."
He ignored that. "I've not much to leave you, girl. The farm—rented stock won't bring much." It was like him to be thinking of such practical things now. Kathie's hands tightened on the quilt. "There's my strongbox—in the closet—all yours," he fumbled among the bedclothes. "The key," he said, and Kathie took it from his trembling old fingers.
In a louder voice, he said, "You hear that, Mrs. Jensen? All Kathie's!"
"Yes, Mr. Hammer I heard." "It's not much, girl, he closed his eyes. The weary shadows on his bony old face had deepened. "You just rest now, Mr. Hammer," Mrs. Jensen said, soothingly. "The doc's on his way."

Mrs. Jensen gave Kathie a look and they tiptoed from the room. The older woman led the way to the kitchen, where she turned on a light and lit a burner of the kerosene range, then filled the coffee pot with water.
Kathie sank into a chair. "I don't know what I would have done without you, Mrs. Jensen. You're so good to leave your family and help us like this!"
"My family does all right without me. I couldn't see you work like a sick man all night, too." "Buck's been helping with the chores," Kathie reminded her, and in spite of her sagging spirits, some warmth crept into her voice.
The older woman looked at her keenly. "You two, aiming to get married now?"
Color rose under Kathie's creamy skin. "I don't know." "Might as well. You'll be all alone, won't you, if —?" her head made an eloquent gesture toward the sickroom.
The girl nodded, her face clouding. "Uncle Job isn't really my family. He married Auntie Eva Field, my great-aunt," Kathie said. "I don't know much about his family." Her eyes darkened. "He never was one to talk much, you know."
"I know," Mrs. Jensen said, in that same dry tone. Job Hammer had been a curiosity to his neighbors then, and a curiosity he had remained. It was disappointing to learn that his great-niece knew no more about him than anyone else.

The fragrant aroma of perking coffee bubbled up from the stove.
"Here comes Buck to help you with the chores—and you not even dressed!"
"Oh!" Kathie cried, her hands going involuntarily to her hair. "Give him some coffee, will you, Mrs. Jensen? I'll be right down!" She ran swiftly up the stairs to her room.
When she returned a few minutes later, dressed in jeans and a plaid shirt, her face was freshly scrubbed and her braids, gleaming now like black satin, were wound coronet fashion around her head.
As she entered the kitchen, a stockily built young man rose from a chair at the kitchen table. "Hello, Buck."
Buck Landers was handsome in a heavy-featured way, his face with a slightly sullen air. But his eyes were bright with appreciation in Kathie's face.

"I came early because I saw your light," he said. "Figured you might need me!"
Kathie smiled her gratitude. "Doc Hency's coming," Mrs. Jensen repeated. "There's nothing anyone can do till he gets here. You two go ahead with the chores and I'll have breakfast ready when you come in. Here's your coffee, Kathie. Now you drink it."
Obediently Kathie sipped the hot coffee. A silence fell over them. Presently, without breaking it, Kathie and Buck picked up the clean milk buckets Mrs. Jensen had set out and went out the kitchen door.
As she milked, Kathie could look out the barn door. It had been a square of black velvet when she first sat down, but as her eyes became accustomed to the light, she could make out the sweeping lines of the valley, nestled between rows of rolling hills scattered with dark blobs that were clumps of live oak.

Buck came presently to empty her buckets of milk into the big milk can which would soon wheel down to the gate where it would wait for the creamery truck. Kathie went on to milk the little Helfer who gave them milk for the house, and Buck fed the pigs and chickens. Then, together, they turned the horses into the upper pasture.
They were above the house now, and the scent of eucalyptus was strong and biting in their nostrils.
"Let's walk up to the grove," Buck suggested.
She looked anxiously back at the house. "I don't know if we should."
"Later on, there's going to be so many people around for us to talk," he said.

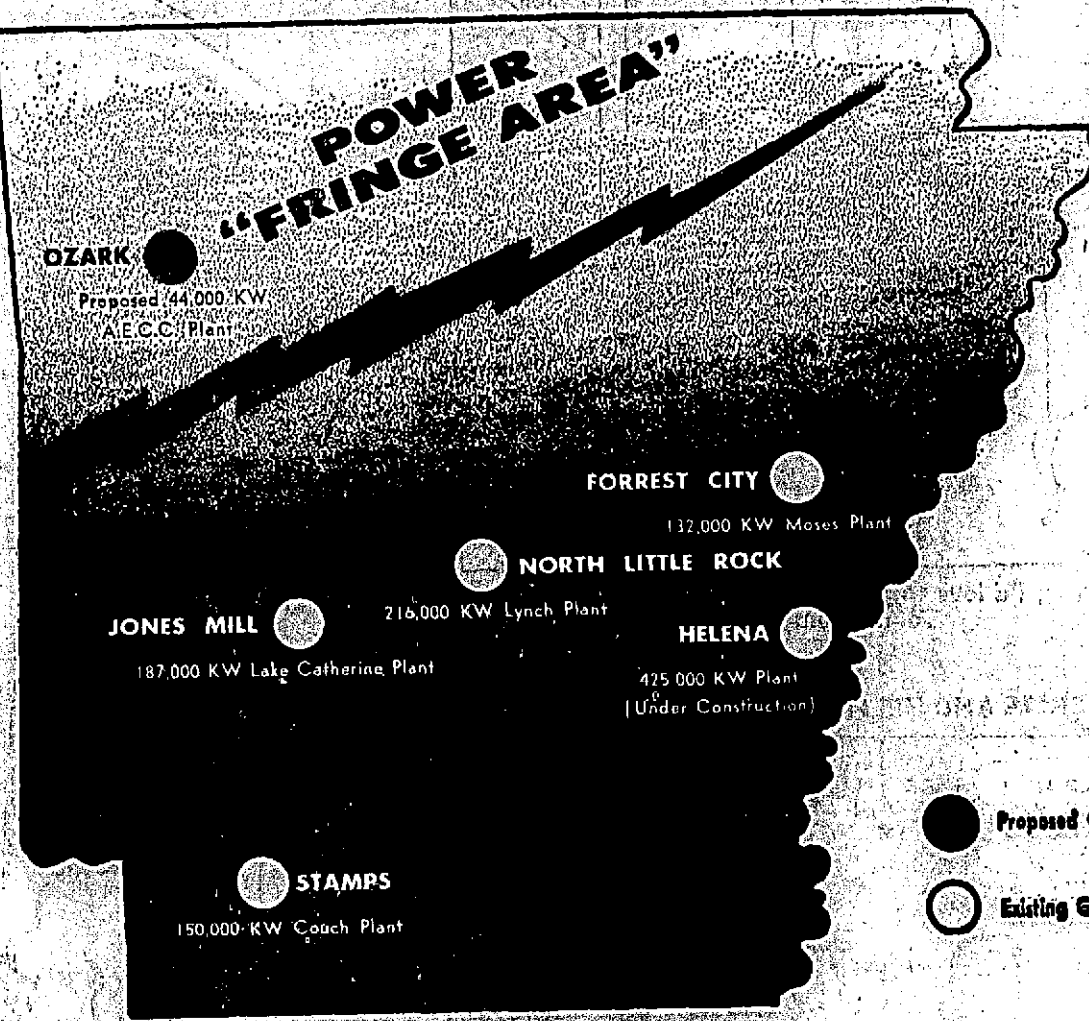

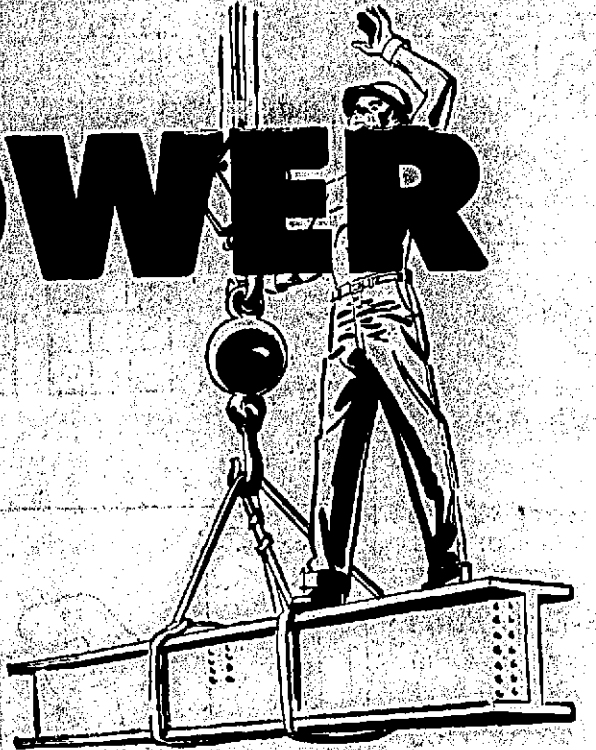

Kathie shivered. "It isn't right to speak as if he'd already died," Buck protested.
"You're only right to face the facts," he countered.
Neither of them spoke for a few minutes. They entered the eucalyptus grove, and the heady fragrance was all around them. Turning to look back, Kathie saw they had climbed high enough to see the first rays of the sun. Finally Buck spoke. "When are we going to get married, Kathie?" he said.
She tried to evade him. "I don't know."
"How about next Sunday?" She started violently. "Buck, you can't be serious!"
"I am," though. His heavy-browed face was very serious. "But Uncle Job —"
"We may as well face it, Kathie. By next Sunday, your uncle will be gone. There isn't much doubt about it, is there?"

MORE POWER FOR ARKANSAS' DEVELOPMENT AND GROWTH

WHAT ANOTHER STEAM GENERATING PLANT MEANS TO ARKANSAS

The Arkansas Electric Cooperative Corporation, an association of independent, member-owned electric utilities, has proposed the establishment of a steam generating plant to provide electric power in the Northwest, North Central and Northeast sections of Arkansas.

The state's Electric Cooperatives have long recognized the need for abundant power for Arkansas and its people, and have never opposed construction of power generation facilities in the state. Construction of the proposed plant in the Ozark area will provide the much-needed power for industries and cooperative members in the power "fringe area" of Arkansas.

The $17,000,000 invested in these generation and transmission facilities will provide adequate power for the territories served by Arkansas Valley, Ozarks, Carroll, North Arkansas, and Craighead Electric Cooperatives. It will also provide independence for these Arkansas businesses and independence and bargaining power for the other Electric Cooperatives of Arkansas.

Adequate power is essential for the continued industrial growth and development of Arkansas. The Electric Cooperatives will be proud to add the new 44,000 kilowatt plant in the Ozark area as their contribution toward Arkansas' progress.
